PROFILE

Front End Web Developer, specialising in Javascript, primarily working with ReactJs. Confident with Front-end and Back-end tasks, having experience with HTML5, CSS3, Python, PHP and SQL. Constantly evolving my skill sets by undertaking personal and professional projects, exploring programming languages, such as Ruby and Rust, and developing with technologies including, but not limited to, Next.js, Node.js, GraphQL.
Following graduation from Code Institute and a career change, I have been exploring DevOps. With my experiences in a range of industries, I have seen first-hand the need for communication between departments, and I aim to utilise the practices of DevOps, along with my attention to detail and valuable problem solving skills as I pursue a career as a Front End Web Developer creating clean, technology driven and reusable code.
I am open to collaboration with fellow developers, hoping to create relationships with peers in the industry.
